

NISHIMURA Tomoyasu
Executive Director

Mr. NISHIMURA Tomoyasu is the Executive Director of NEDO overseeing the Internet of Things Promotion Department, the Robot and Artificial Intelligence Technology Department, the Frontier and Moonshot Technology Department, and the Public Relations Department.

Mr. Nishimura previously worked for NEC Corporation, where he was the head of a business unit responsible for computers (from personal computers to mainframes, supercomputers, storage, and the like), related software, and maintenance services. He started his career in distributed development management at multiple software development bases, and later held positions such as product planning supervisor for computer products.

Mr. Nishimura completed the master's program at Hosei University Graduate School of Engineering.